PREFACE.

THE Library of the Statistical Society, whose functions are to observe and record facts relating to the condition and progress of society, must needs be rich in works of a solid character, the writings of observers and statisticians of all times and countries. And the works it has accumulated, now numbering well nigh 20,000 volumes, embody facts of a physical and vital, mental and moral, social and economical, commercial, industrial, and financial character, of great value, not only to the politician, the economist and the historian, but to every accurate writer and reasoner.

A glance at the pages of this Catalogue will suffice to indicate how varied and thorough is the statistical information now collected, and with what vigour the science is pursued under the superintendence of the State, and still more by the labours of men of science. Whilst the Astronomer expands our knowledge of the meteorology and magnetism of the universe, and the Geographer explores for us unknown regions, and makes us acquainted with the habits and wants of distant races, the Statistician labours to evolve the principles of those sciences which govern alike the phenomena of the material universe and the practical problems of the law of probabilities, and subjects the real worth of economic doctrines to the close test of numbers, and to the great corrective of experience and facts.

The Library of the Statistical Society has grown to considerable dimensions since the last Catalogue was published in 1859. The International Statistical Congress, held under the auspices of the different Governments in Brussels, Paris, Vienna, London, Florence, The Hague, Berlin, St. Petersburg, and Budapest, brought the Statistical Society into contact with the Statistical Bureaux and leading statisticians of all countries, and the Official Publications of the following States are now regularly received in the Library, viz.:—Argentine Republic, Austria and Hungary, Bavaria, Belgium, Brazil, Bulgaria, China, Denmark, Egypt, France, Germany, Guatemala, Italy, Netherlands, Norway and Sweden, Prussia, Portugal, Roumania, Russia, Saxony, Spain, Switzerland, United States of America, and Uruguay. So also are the Official Publications from the various departments of the United Kingdom, and from the Indian, Colonial, and other Possessions of the British Empire.

The resources of the Library will be best appreciated by reference to the names of different States, and to those of the many eminent Statisticians and Economists whose works it contains. Thus under the heading of Italy will be found Official Publications relating to Climatology, Meteorology and Topography, Population and Anthropometry, Instruction, elementary and technical, Judicial proceedings and Crime, Mining, Commerce, Industry and Navigation, and communal, provincial, and national Finances; whilst the "Annali di Statistica" and "Archivio di Statistica" are full of papers on philosophical, statistical, and economic questions.

Under the heading of Names of Authors, there will be found, among many others, the writings of Balbi, Michel Chevalier, Sir Josiah Child, Engel, Fallati, Dr. Farr, Stanley Jevons, Malthus, William Newmarch, Sir William Petty, G. R. Porter, Quetelet, Say, Adam Smith, Thomas Tooke, Wagner, Wells, Wolowski, Arthur Young.

On the subject of the Currency, the student will find, among others, the writings of Sir Francis Baring, Canning, Lord Castlereagh, Cernuschi, Earl of Lauderdale, Leroy-Beaulieu, Levasseur, Earl of Liverpool, Henry Macleod, John Stuart Mill, Lord Overstone, Bonamy Price, Ricardo, Say, Thornton, Thomas Tooke, Vansittart, and Wolowski.

Statistical works are often illustrated by graphic tables, and the Library contains a variety of charts and diagrams of considerable value.

Year by year purchases of statistical works and other books of reference have been made for the Library. And in addition the Library has been enriched by the works purchased with the Tooke Memorial Fund, by the valuable collection of books given by the widow of the late Mr. William Newmarch, a former President of the Society, and by gifts received from Members of the Society, Authors, and Publishers.

In the preparation of the Catalogue, the following rules have been adopted, based upon those of the Library Association of the United Kingdom, with slight modifications:—

With regard to the Author, works are placed—

Under the surname of authors when stated on the title-page.

Under the initials of authors' names when these only are known; the word [Anon.] being added.

Under the pseudonyms of writers when their names are not known; the word [Anon.] being added.

Under the chief subject-word of the titles of anonymous books; the word [Anon.] being added.

Under the first word, not an article, of the titles of periodicals.

Under the names of Societies of the United Kingdom.

Under the names of foreign countries, of the British Colonies, and of India.

Noblemen are entered under their highest title, with a cross-reference from their surname.

Ecclesiastical dignitaries are entered under their surnames; and the highest title added.

Catalogues are entered under the name of the institution, with a cross-reference to the compiler.

Cross-references are given from the subjects of biographies to the writers.

In arranging the individual works of an author, the chronological order has been followed; the latest edition being entered first.

With regard to the Subject or Title—

The title is a transcript from the title-page, unimportant matter being omitted, the omissions being generally indicated by a group of three dots (. . .). The contents are given of volumes that contain more than one distinct work or essay.

Particulars are also given of—

Number of the edition (if not new).

Number of pages (if one volume only), otherwise the number of volumes.

as well as of—

Illustrations, &c.

Size.

Where published.

Date of publication.

It was originally in contemplation to publish simultaneously with the Catalogue an Index to its contents, in which the subject-matter of each work should be alphabetically arranged. But it has been found impossible to give this Index the completeness essential to its utility, without giving it also a bulk not inferior to that of the Catalogue itself; and in order to place the Catalogue in the hands of the Society on the fiftieth year of its existence, the publication of the Index is for the present postponed.

STATISTICAL SOCIETY,

June, 1884.

REGULATIONS OF THE LIBRARY.

1. The Library is open daily from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m., except on Saturdays, when it closes at 2 p.m.; and it is entirely closed during the month of September.

2. Members of the Society are permitted to take out books on making personal application, or by letter addressed to the Librarian.

3. Members are not to have more than two works at a time, nor keep any books longer than a month.

4. Scientific Journals and Periodicals are not circulated until the volumes are completed and bound.

5. Cyclopædias and works of reference are not circulated.

6. Any Member damaging a book, either replaces the work, or pays a fine equivalent to its value.

7. Books taken from the shelves for reference, are not to be replaced, but must be laid on the Library table.

8. The Secretary shall report to the Council any infringement of these regulations.

AN OUTLINE OF THE OBJECTS OF THE STATISTICAL SOCIETY.

THE Statistical Society of London was founded, in pursuance of a recommendation of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, on the 15th of March, 1834; its object being, the careful collection, arrangement, discussion and publication, of facts bearing on and illustrating the complex relations of modern society in its social, economical, and political aspects,—especially facts which can be stated numerically and arranged in tables;—and also, to form a Statistical Library as rapidly as its funds would permit.

The Society from its inception has steadily progressed. It now possesses a valuable Library and a Reading Room; Ordinary Meetings are held monthly from November to June, which are well attended, and cultivate among its Fellows an active spirit of investigation: the Papers read before the Society are, with an abstract of the discussions thereon, published in its Journal, which now consists of forty-six annual volumes, and forms of itself a valuable library of reference.

The Society has originated and statistically conducted many special inquiries on subjects of economic or social interest, of which the results have been published in the Journal, or issued separately; the latest instance being the institution of the "Howard Medal" Prize Essay.

To enable the Society to extend its sphere of useful activity, and accomplish in a yet greater degree the various ends indicated, an increase in its numbers and revenue is desirable. With the desired increase in the number of Fellows, the Society will be enabled to publish standard works on Economic Science and Statistics, especially such as are out of print or scarce, and also greatly extend its collection of Foreign works. Such a well-arranged Library for reference, as would result, does not at present exist in England, and is obviously a great desideratum.

The Society is cosmopolitan, and consists of Fellows and Honorary Members, forming together a body, at the present time, of over nine hundred Members.

The Annual Subscription to the Society is Two Guineas, and at present there is no entrance fee. Fellows may, on joining the Society, or afterwards, compound for all future Annual Subscriptions by a payment of Twenty Guineas.

The Fellows of the Society receive gratuitously a copy of each part of the Journal as published quarterly, and have the privilege of purchasing back numbers at a reduced rate. The Library (reference and circulating), and the Reading Room, are open daily for the convenience of Members.

Nomination Forms and any further information will be furnished, on application to the Assistant Secretary.
